Early Windflower	Saunders	Herb. Hybrid	1940-Cat-Saund:04	Veitchi x Emodi. This and the Beresowskyi x Emodi strains are so closely alike that I prefer to offer them under the above names. The early strain blooms at the very beginning of the peony season; the other about a week later. These plants are graceful and unusual. The flowers, which are only moderate in size, resemble beautiful white anemones. They are slightly nodding and are borne on rather tall stems. The foliage is fern-like and very handsome. Sold as a strain only, the plants in each group being all closely alike.

Garden Peace	Saunders	1941	Herb. Hybrid	1960-Cat-Saund:05	(Albiflora x [albiflora x macrophylla]) (1941) E. Pure white flowers, four or five to a stem, with gold and crimson centers. Its side blooms give it a very long season. The crimson stems are so tall they may need a stake.

Garden Peace	Saunders	1941	Herb. Hybrid	1974-B212:33	Garden Peace is a large bush about 4 feet in diameter and about 3 feet high. The flowers are large but not as large as Pico, and the stems have never needed staking in my garden. The bush has many flower stems, each containing several blooms, the colour being pure white with a hint of green and a deep reddish centre. The leaves have a leathery look, are shaped like their macrophylla parent and have a deep green colour without a yellow tint. They provide an ideal dark background for the white flowers. The bush is an eye catcher in the garden and deserves a prominent place. The large size of the leaves and their distinctive colour gives the plant a tropical appearance unlike that of any other peony. The succession of flowers from secondary buds gives a blooming period of about two weeks. Being two thirds lactiflora, it is a strong, vigorous grower and requires a minimum four square foot area.
Garden Peace	Saunders	1941	Herb. Hybrid	1976-K:033	(Saunders, 1941) - Single - White - Hybrid. Tall. Great single white flower, several to a stem, with gold and crimson centers. Its side blooms give it a very long season. The dark red stems are so tall they may need a stake. Albiflora x macrophylla. Second generation, back cross. Lists in Bulletins 91 and 129. Miss Saunders' letter, 1955.

Late Windflower	Saunders	1939	Herb. Hybrid	1940-Cat-Saund:04	Beresowskyi x Emodi. This and the Veitchi x Emodi strains are so closely alike that I prefer to offer them under the above names. The early strain blooms at the very beginning of the peony season; the other about a week later. These plants are graceful and unusual. The flowers, which are only moderate in size, resemble beautiful white anemones. They are slightly nodding and are borne on rather tall stems. The foliage is fern-like and very handsome. Sold as a strain only, the plants in each group being all closely alike.

Time Traveler	Saunders / Waltz	2005	Herb. Hybrid	2005-334:081	Herbaceous Hybrid. Parentage: P. emodi x P. mlokosewitschii. Seedlings are indistinguishable from one another and were raised by Saunders under numbers 12185 – 12189. First bloomed c. 1946. Stems to 24 inches of upright growth habit. Leaves are narrow pointed, yellow-green in color, divided like emodi. Single cupped flowers are up facing (unlike emodi), 2 inches in size, and are palest yellow fading to white. No flares present. Two carpels on average, green in color, with normal shaped stigmas. Stamens and abundant usable pollen; filaments pale yellow. Rarely, if ever, produces seeds. Named to reflect the longevity of these seedlings in relative obscurity, and their arrival almost 60 years later in the 21st Century.

Matilda Lewis	Saunders	1921	Lactiflora	1923-SPN:348
Matilda Lewis	Saunders	1921	Lactiflora	1928-Boyd:44	Double. 9.0 (Sym. 1925). Dark mahogany-red.
Matilda Lewis	Saunders	1921	Lactiflora	1928-Boyd-d:120	Double type; large; midseason. Loosely formed blooms of dark maroon. Medium tall; upright, vigorous growth; stiff stems. Foliage dark green. Like all reds of this shade, the flowers have a tendency to turn black in very bright sunlight. Very nearly the same color as M. MARTIN CAHUZAC, foliage and stems also very similar, but the flower is better filled out, comes about a week later, and the plant is generally a better grower. Should not be confused with MRS. JOHN M. LEWIS (Lewis) of somewhat similar color.
Matilda Lewis	Saunders	1921	Lactiflora	1933-Sup:06	Double. 9.19 (Sym. 1933).
Matilda Lewis	Saunders	1921	Lactiflora	1935-B060:11	9.19. Lacti. Double. Late midseason. Red. Fast becoming known as one of the very best reds that has ever been produced, this variety is a very brilliant dark red, almost, if not quite as dark as Mows. Martin Cahuzac. It is a far better grower with good strong stems and fine foliage. It is now rated as one of the few above 9. in the red class.
Matilda Lewis	Saunders	1921	Lactiflora	1941-Cat-Auten:02	Fine red double. $3.00
Matilda Lewis	Saunders	1921	Lactiflora	1942-Cat-Auten:02	Dark red double. $1.00

Silvia Saunders	Saunders	1921	Lactiflora	1927-Cat-ISF:67	APS rating 8.7. A charming little flower that is more like a wild prairie rose, both in form and coloring, than a Peony. The semi-double blooms open in flat, or slightly cupped, form with a double row of wide and rounded petals surrounding a center of short stamens and delicate light green carpels, tipped bright pink. The uniformly symmetrical flowers are produced to profusion on a plant of rather dwarf growth with strong, upright stems. Midseason. A fine and distinct landscape variety. $20.00
Silvia Saunders	Saunders	1921	Lactiflora	1928-Boyd:52	Double. 8.7 (Sym. 1925). Syn., Sylvia. Pink, Semi-double type; not large; extra early. Cup-shaped, bright clear rose-pink, fading lighter toward the center, which is filled with yellow stamens among which the very bright pink stigmas make a conspicuous pattern; odor not very good. Dwarf; good grower; very abundant bloomer. Not of much value as a show bloom, but the plant is extremely effective in the garden.
Silvia Saunders	Saunders	1921	Lactiflora	1928-Boyd-d:142	9.04 (Sym. 1933).
Silvia Saunders	Saunders	1921	Lactiflora	1933-Sup:08	9.04. Lacti. Double. Early. Pink. Standing at the very top of its class, this rather dwarf semi-double peony with good stems and a medium-sized flower of clear rose pink, lightening towards a center of golden stamens, surrounding bright pink stigmas, has a charm that is irresistible in its appeal to all who like the artistic and beautiful in flowers. There is nothing else like it and its daintiness and loveliness can be appreciated only when seen.
Silvia Saunders	Saunders	1921	Lactiflora	1935-B060:13	(Lactiflora Gp) Specially good as a garden plant. Literally covers itself with light fresh pink wild-rose-like semi-double flowers. Has proved a great garden favorite wherever grown. American Peony Society rating, 9. $5.00

Silvia Saunders	Saunders	1921	Lactiflora	1962-W:087	Pink petals with white at the base. Golden stamens, white pistils with red tops. Small, cupped petals form a semi-single, unusually composed flower. Long-stemmed side buds on every shoot form particularly attractive arrangements of flower clusters just above the low, thick bush. Long, narrow leaves cover the round bush, 27" stems.. Blooms rather early. One of the best varieties and now reasonably priced.
Silvia Saunders	Saunders	1921	Lactiflora	1976-K:092	(Saunders, 1921) - Semi-Double - Pink - Extra Early. Dwarf. Odor not very good. A beautiful little flower remindful of a semi-double wild prairie rose. Argosy	Saunders	1928	Lutea Hybrid	1928-Boyd-t:248	Award of Merit, Massachusetts Horticultural Society, 1928.
Argosy	Saunders	1928	Lutea Hybrid	1929-037:54	Parentage: lutea x moutan. Habit of the plant very vigorous. Foliage intermediate between the two parents. In our climate this hybrid tree peony, like Lutea, is apt to kill back to the ground in winter; but it shoots up vigorously in spring and blooms on the new wood. I think it is somewhat hardier than Lutea, and somewhat less so than most of the Chinese tree peonies. The flowers are fairly large, semi-double, and are carried upright on stout stems. The petals are of a very clear bright sulphur yellow, stained deep purple red over a small area at the base. Pollen sterile, and the plant has never set seed. First Class Certificate, Massachusetts Horticultural Society, June, 1928; also Garden Achievement Medal for Best New Peony, American Peony Society's Show, 1928.
