In no particular order. I've got many more.

Love peonies! I have 42 varieties. Bought Canary Brilliants this year, might become a favourite.

That was hard:)

I grow 46, a few havent bloomed for me, but even so these are what i estimate to be the best of my lot

Garden Princess is my favorite peony due to its delicate petals and low pink color.

I love peony. They are lovely and most definitely Gods beauties!

But I love my seedlings that I have developed over 20 years best. They are like kids.

I've used several of these quite extensively in hybridizing, and have a certain fondness for them because of that.

am sure some of my list would change if I did this a second time!

Some because of hybridizing, but mostly due to form and color.

I seem to have more time to enjoy the early blooming plants, buds and flowers at the beginning of the bloom season unlike later in the bloom season when the garden explodes with color and overwhelms the senses.

first pick is Pink Princess- excellent in every way

Really?! How do you even choose a top 20 - SO many that I love!!

I like to have peonies blooming for a long time, so I have chosen very early and very late peonies. Here in Finland tree peonies are not hardy, but intersectionals do all right.

Not really in strict order, I love them all! Some of these I can only dream of...

Chose mostly peonies that consistently have nice flower form in our gardens.

Laura Desserts is definately my number one this year, she surprised me with an amazing fragrance in such a little package.

Sarah Bernhardt just looks classic though the Bartzella near Coral Sunset makes visitors to my garden ooh and ah!

Thanks to the american breeders for their hard work and excellent varieties of peonies.

I love peonies it is so hard. But I think these r my top.

Didn't know weather to put new stuff or herbaceous or tree .so I mixed it up . Also I did not put in seedling

Scarlet Heaven was my first peony and it's such a lovely plant

I could easily do another 10! Myra is my all time favorite though because of her beautiful color and her size and she's always a very consistent performer year after year. We love peonies. Most of our sare "name unknown." One of my peonies belonged to my great-grandfather (born 1869). We thought all of them were gone, but one day I was mowing early in the spring and saw a tiny peony leaf still struggling to come up where they had once been. It had been in the shade and mowed for a number of yeras. Only a piece of rhizome the size of my little finger was left. However, after moving it to my home and giving it care, it is now doing well and blooming every year.

Tough!

They are in no specific order.
