

Jill Stevens Short Biographical Sketch

Jill Stevens has had a love for peonies since she was a child. When she moved to her current home in 1993, her urban backyard was just an empty lot. Fast forward to today, and it's now a beautiful oasis filled with over 1,300 varieties of peonies! Jill takes great joy in caring for her flowers and keeps detailed records to track their growth. One of her all-time favorites is a peony called Orange Glory, and she loves sharing her collection with others. Jill, a Master Gardener, serves as a Director for both the American Peony Society and the Minnesota Peony Society. Her stunning garden has even been featured in magazines and on public television, showcasing the passion and expertise she brings to gardening!
