

Vlasava Short Biographical Sketch

Dr. Vlasava's research interests include the genetic diversity of endangered wild plant species as well as their domesticated cultivars (including Paeonia.) The application of this data guides insights for taxonomy, distribution, evolution (domestication) and conservation of the studied taxa. Internationally-collaborative studies include comparative research of the population structure of invasive and endangered species using genomics and ecological components.

---